10. A commentary at the date of the announcement of the significant trends and competitive conditions of the industry in which the group operates and any known factors or events that may affect the group in the next reporting period and the next 12 months.

The offshore energy and subsea services sector demonstrated resilience throughout 3Q2025, supported by sustained upstream investments, strong vessel utilization, and a continued focus on field-life extension and integrity management. While global oil demand growth has moderated, the industry remains in an extended investment cycle driven by ongoing project sanctioning and reinvestment in mature offshore assets. Activity levels are particularly robust in the Middle East and West Africa, where long-cycle developments and brownfield tiebacks continue to underpin steady demand for subsea intervention and maintenance services.

(Registered in the Kingdom of Thailand) (Company Registration No. 0107550000017)

Growing demand for life-extension, tie-back, and integrity programs reflects operators' commitment to maximizing existing infrastructure amid natural decline-rate pressures. At the same time, momentum in the decommissioning segment persists, fueled by aging assets in the North Sea, Thailand, and parts of the Middle East, alongside stricter regulatory requirements for field retirement and environmental compliance.

The offshore vessel market remains tight, with limited availability of modern DSV and MSV tonnage and rising demand across key regions. Lead times for equipment, particularly ROVs and LARS units, continue to lengthen due to OEM backlogs and logistical constraints. These conditions support pricing discipline and operational leverage for established contractors with proven track records and high-specification assets.

Clients increasingly prioritize reliability, schedule assurance, and integrated project delivery. The shift toward combined subsea, IRM, and construction packages favors service providers with strong regional presence, technical expertise, and modern, well-maintained fleets.

For Mermaid, these industry dynamics present a positive outlook with solid project visibility across its operating regions. The Group's established footprint in the Middle East, North Sea, West Africa, and Southeast Asia positions it to capture sustained demand for IRM, decommissioning, cable-lay, and broader subsea and offshore services. Regulatory-driven decommissioning programs and field-life extension initiatives are expected to support stable activity through 2026.

Key external risks remain, including oil-price volatility, geopolitical developments, and foreign-exchange exposure. Nevertheless, Mermaid's proven operational performance, integrated service model, and strong fleet capabilities continue to provide a resilient foundation for sustained growth and long-term performance.
